CLACKAMAS COUNTY DIRECTORY, 1916.

OREGON CITY

County seat of Clackamas County, first settled in 1829; incorporated Not only the oldest city in Oregon, but one of the most progressive of the West. A city of solid business enterprises, and a home city. The on the east bank of the Willamette river at the falls, where abundant power is ideal. It has become the home of the Hawley Pulp & Paper Company, Crown Willamette Paper Company and the woolen mills of the Oregon Manufacturing Company. The combined pay rolls of the three plants reach $1,000,000 annually.

The Willamette Falls is capable of furnishing almost unlimited power present the electric power generated and used exceeds 40,000 horse-horse. The COMMERCIAL CLUB. Oregon City is fortunate in its Commercial Club. This being among the live organizations of the West, alert to assist in every for the betterment of city and country. This club has the reputation of doing PUBLIC SCHOOLS. The citizens are justly proud of their public schools have recently completed a new high school building, one of the finest in the CHURCHES. Practically all the churches are represented with active and commodious houses of worship.

FRATERNAL SOCIETIES. Twenty-two fraternal and benevolent societies represented by active organizations. Several of the organizations have buildings.

LIBRARY. The Oregon City Library has a modern brick building, what is known as Library Park.

BANKING. The banking interests of Oregon City are well cared for by strong banks, having ample capital and officers who are qualified by experience and acquaintance with the needs of the community they serve.

MERCANTILE ESTABLISHMENTS. Oregon City merchants carry a well selected stock. The "trade at home" idea has been a popular one been answered and in the only practical way; by a service and that has petition at every corner.

SPORTSMAN'S PARADISE. The fame of Oregon City as a resort for has gone out during the past few years until she has become the mecca for of Isaac Walton, and has been visited the past season by hundreds of parts of the United States, anxious for a try at the elusive salmon trout remarkable catches were made. The record catch tipping the scales at 4 NEWSPAPERS. Oregon City has one daily, The Morning Enterprise weeklies, the Enterprise and Courier, well edited and papers that would lead to larger cities.
