

FOR SHOP STATION

The reconversion of a Flying Fortress to its civilian role atop Art Lacey's service station on the superhighway at Oak Grove was completed Sunday afternoon at formal dedication ceremonies. Mayor Fred Sperr of Milwaukie gave the dedicatory address, placing the "huge weapon of destruction into a peaceful enterprise."

Lacey purchased the bomber in Oklahoma and had it ferried to Portland. It was then dismantled and transported to his service station. The plane is open for inspection during business hours.
